Working Together Works:

FEB supports and promotes national initiatives of the President and the Administration and responds to local needs of Federal departments/agencies and the community. The Board serves as a vital connection to intergovernmental coordination identifying common ground and building cooperative relationships. FEBs have a long history of establishing and maintaining valuable communication links and have been providing a balanced perspective for more than 40 years.

Today, the Boards are even more relevant than at any other time in history. As the local Federal ambassador, the FEB identifies opportunities for partnerships with intergovernmental and community organizations. Interagency collaboration is no longer just a wise choice; it has become necessary as a matter of survival. We no longer have the luxury of deciding if we want to work together, but we must determine how we will accomplish our common goals.

Intended Audience:

Leaders in the Federal Government Arena, to include current Federal Directors, Managers, Supervisors, future-leaders and contractors.

Although this conference is called an Executive Leadership Conference, attendance is not limited to members of the Senior Executive Service (or equivalent).
